

Nordic Skiing History

2008-2009

The Nordic Ski team had one of the best seasons ever. Starting in mid-December this year, the team's 17 athletes braved frigid winter temperatures to take part in competitions at several challenging venues including beautiful Haliburton, Sudbury and the Gatineaus of Quebec. At the OUA Championships, the men's team earned a bronze medal place overall behind Lakehead and Carleton, while the women pulled in with a fourth place overall finish, behind the best from Lakehead, Carleton and Laurentian. Fourth-year skier Ian Ritchie earned OUA All-Star status with a fifth and seventh place finish in the men's 10km and 15km Classic races respectively.

The bitter temperatures and harsh winds didn't stop the Gryphons at the OUA Nordic Skiing Championships at Laurentian University in Sudbury. In the classic event, Steve Kilshaw was the first Guelph skier across the line in 15th place. Emily Lynes battled an injured hip for all five kilometres to come in 18th out of a strong field. On the men's side, the Gryphons placed 4th overall matching last year's results. The women's team skied to a strong 5th place finish ending another strong season by edging out Waterloo.

This season was a success for the Nordic Ski Team on an administrative, athletic and emotional level. After struggling for a number of years to maintain its position as a varsity team, this year saw the re-instatement of its varsity status and the acquisition of a level-three certified non-student coach in Gord Salt. The men's team proved its ability to compete at an elite level. Stephen Hart continually placed in the top ten and earned OUA All-Star honours. Brian Suke devoured course after course, finishing as the third senior man at the OUA Championship and was awarded first place as a junior man due to his age and finished 12th over-all. The women's team displayed remarkably close results throughout the year, demonstrating that their training was entirely a team process, as was their racing. Notable athletes were rookie, Judy Condliffe, who demonstrated team spirit and enthusiasm time and time again, to spur on the women, and Sarah Nathan, a novice skier, who displayed extremely promising results. Veteran, Nicola Cameron, placed 14th in the Ottawa qualifier and Johanna Martin staged an incredible resurgence of drive at the end of the season to finish 14th overall in Sudbury.

The Nordic Ski Gryphons Women's team lost by 13 seconds in the race for an OWIAA Championship, but saw Kelly Rogers win the overall individual race. The men may have had meets scheduled too close together, as they ran out of steam at the provincial championships and ended up in fifth position.
